

ANOTHER DIMENSION OF AN IDEA

The Belgian production company Another Dimension of an Idea was founded in 1996 and is being run by Anja Daelemans. She gained experience by working as Line producer for short films, feature films, drama series, soap series, multicamerashows, commercials, video clips, management training videos and company presentations. So far she was nominated twice for Academy Awards®.

In 2000 the production of short films was initiated, with "EX#N° 1870-04" (dir. by Christophe Van Rompaey). After that came internationally acclaimed productions: "Fait d'Hiver" (dir. by Dirk Beliën), which received an Academy Award® nomination and "Oh my God?!" (dir. by Christophe Van Rompaey) which received the Golden Mèlies Award Europe.

Also its first feature film was a huge success on the local market: the thriller "Alias" (dir. by Jan Verheyen) won the Platteau Box Office Award in 2002.

In February 2005, Another Dimension of an Idea's first coproduction, "Off Screen" (dir. by Pieter Kuijpers), was released. It is a coproduction between The Netherlands and Belgium, and the film featured two of Belgium's and the Netherlands' most celebrated actors as its leads: Jan Decleir and Jeroen Krabbé. With the same Dutch director Pieter Kuijpers, Another Dimension of an Idea coproduced "Dennis P." one year later.

In 2007 the short film "Tanghi Argentini" (dir. By Guido Thys) was released, one of the most successful short film in Belgian history. It was selected for more than 75 international film festivals, and won no less than 42 international awards, including an Academy Award® nomination in 2008.

Projects that are currently underway include the feature film "A Love Supreme", the short film "FiFi" and a feature documentary about art and artists in the DPRK, "Atelier North Korea. Can Art Change the World".

Another Dimension of an Idea's mission is to produce creative projects meeting high standards of quality and value.
